

THE HAGUE

The Hague is the place to be, but where should you go in this beautiful Royal city? Let us take you to the places where we like to eat, shop and go out - a combination of both well-known establishments and new or hidden local spots. Follow this guide to see the best of The Hague, and rent a bike to get around town like a true Dutchie. Don't forget to take a photo of your favorite spot in town and share it with us on Instagram with #dayhague.

WEST

The West is where you will find the The Hague of the locals. Get out here on your bicycle and explore the authentic and robust atmosphere of the area. Find industrial features like the Magazijn - a former warehouse, now transformed to student apartments. The area around the electricity plant is full of the energy of cultural, culinary and musical activities (Rond de Energiecentrale). Cycle northwest and you will find the classical neighborhood around Regentesseplein with beautifully decorated facades of grand houses along the Regentessealaan. Looking for a place to sit down and relax during your tour? Make your way to the Valkenbosplein or Reinkenstraat and stop to have a drink.

NORTH

Imagine being the Ambassador of your great home country while cycling through this neighborhood. The beautiful and majestic buildings host numerous Embassies - just visit the Nassauplein and you will see what we are talking about (Archipelbuurt). Find Square 1813 on your way, with its tribute to the defeat of Napoleon and the declaration of the Kingdom of the Netherlands (Willemspark). The west part of this area is called the Zeeheldenkwartier: one of the trendiest and upcoming areas of The Hague. Up for some cultural experiences? You are in the right place in the North. Start with a visit to the Peace Palace to learn everything about the world famous institute. Then make your way up northwest to the Gemeentemuseum. This icon of the city was designed by the famous Dutch architect H.P. Berlage and is the home to the world's largest collection of works by Piet Mondrian!

CENTRE

In the city centre it's clear that The Hague is the seat of the Dutch government and home to the Royal Family. Start your power tour at the historic Binnenhof, where the Dutch Parliament is located. Make a visit to the Mauritshuis and take a stroll along the Lange Vijverberg and give the Prime Minister a wave in his office in the little tower. Wander around the beautiful tree-lined Lange Voorhout. Say hello to King Willem-Alexander at the Palace Noordeinde - when the flag is flying, the King is present. Has your thirst for power been satisfied? Then lose yourself at the Hofkwartier. Whether you are looking for a coffee place, bar, concept store or trendy clothing store, you can find it here. On a sunny day, take a break in the beautiful gardens of Palace Noordeinde. And hey, here's a little secret: ring the bell at the small gate towards the gardens at the end of the Oude Molstraat. The gate will be opened and you will find yourself in the Royal gardens.

SOUTH

The southern part of the city is as multicultural as you can get in The Netherlands. What used to be the Jewish quarter became Chinatown in the 1970s. After walking through the Chinese entrance gate, find yourself surrounded by Chinese shops and restaurants. Towards the southern border of Chinatown, you'll see the beautiful Bierkade canal. The meaning 'Beer quay' comes from the 17th century, when imported beer was only allowed to be unloaded and traded at this canal. Don't forget to drink a beer along the canal as a tribute to this story! Closer to Hollands Spoor, the oldest railway station of The Hague, there is plenty of Arabic influence (Stationsbuurt).

4 DE SIERKAN

Whereas in the old times people came to the - then white tiled - milk institution named De Sierkan (meaning 'decorated milk can'), nowadays De Sierkan is a colourful small bistro just outside the city centre where they offer a delicious international cuisine, reasonably priced and made with fresh, mostly all bio products. During spring and summer you can enjoy your meals - including breakfast and lunch - also on the sunny terrace.

Koningin Emmaplein 3
Tue-Sun 11.00-23.00

6 DE GROENE PAREL

A great fish restaurant with an amazing interior which really gives you the feeling like you are dining in a special place. This also comes back in the dishes, served like true pieces of art. With their shared dining concept and well-suited wines De Groene Parel is not only a catch for the eye but also a great taste for the tongue!
